Waterproof BlackBerry Case ▼

The OtterBox BlackBerry 1930 case is designed for the RIM BlackBerry 8700c and 8700g series. The rugged OtterBox case provides full access to the BlackBerry. You can click, scroll, type, touch, talk and listen to the BlackBerry through the case. The polycarbonate/ABS shell has rubber armor for a secure grip and impact protection. The lockable compound latch is easy to open and will securely close the case with an O-ring case seal for maximum water protection (not intended for use underwater).

Paddle Accessory ▲

Bending Branches has released the Kayak Kickstand, which clamps to the front of your cockpit and provides a place to park your paddle so it can steady your kayak for safe entry and exit. The Kayak Kickstand can also be used with a paddle as an outrigger to stabilize the kayak and free your hands for fishing and photography.

Wireless Speed Computer ▼

While a GPS unit will give you an indication of your speed, it can't separate boat speed from the speed of moving water. If you're in training for racing, a knot meter that will give you speed through the water is a much more useful tool. The Speedwatch wireless speed computer uses a magnetic impeller and a wireless transmitter to provide an accurate measure of speed in km/h, m/s, knots and mph. The display also shows

Women's Wetsuit ▼

Girls4Sport has partnered with Aleeda Wetsuits to produce a high-quality wetsuit designed specially for women by women. Available in 3/2 mm and 4/3 mm, the wetsuit is made from SuperStretch neoprene from the waist up to allow for greater freedom of movement and a perfect fit. The seams are single blindstitched and glued. Currently available in Liquid Blue (shown) and Sypro (see website for color) and in sizes XS-XL.
